To

The DEWAN of MYSORE.

THE APPLICATION of Louis Henry Raw, Gentleman, of 615, Salisbury House, London Wall, London, E.C., and Inventor, for leave to file a Specification under Part 1 of the Mysore Inventions and Designs Regulations, 1894.

1. The applicant is in possession of an invention for "Improvements in and relating to the treatment of ramie, china grass and other fibrous substances"; ~~that~~ he is the inventor; and to the best of his information and belief the invention is new within the meaning of Part 1 of the Mysore Inventions and Designs Regulations, 1894; and no circumstance exists which, if the applicant be authorised to file a specification and files it in accordance with that Part, will disentitle him to an exclusive privilege thereunder in respect of the invention

2. The following is a description of the invention:-

This invention relates to a process for the treatment of fibrous substances, and has for its object to provide a simple and effective method of separating the fibres so that the expense of the ordinary chemical or mechanical methods of separation may be avoided and fibre produced of fine quality and capable, for example, in the case of ramie, of being used in substitution of, or in combination with wool and other similar materials.

According to the invention in its application, for example, to the treatment of ramie, I lay the fibre in a thin layer on the ground, and I press the fibre in contact therewith. After allowing it to lie for a few days, I turn it over and press it in contact with the surface of the earth and allow it to lie for a further few days, and I may turn it over repeatedly and allow the treatment to continue until I find by trial after drying the fibrous substance, that the fibre is readily separated in a shaking machine, and that when ramie or a substance similar to ramie is treated and passed through a carding machine, fibre is produced of a fine character having the quality of felting and capable of being used in substitution of, or in combination with wool.

In the treatment of China grass I find that a treatment of 8 to 10 days is generally sufficient. The duration of treatment, however, depends upon the character of the fibrous substance to be treated, and may readily be determined by trial as hereinbefore described.

I bare and level the ground upon which to lay the fibrous substance, and prefer to use ground or earth that has a normal content of moisture.

It will be understood that after subjecting the fibrous substances to the process hereinbefore described, they may be dried and the gummy matter binding the fibres having lost its adhesive quality by the treatment may then be shaken away as dust.

I am aware that it has before been proposed to treat ramie and other similar fibrous substances by their burial in earth.

3. The Applicant therefore applies for leave to file a specification of the invention pursuant to Part 1 of the Mysore Inventions and Designs Regulation, 1894.

DATED this 16th day of July 1909.

Louis Henry Law

I the applicant abovenamed do declare that at is stated in this application is true to my owledge except as to matters stated on information
d belief and as to those matters I believe them be true.

Sir,

I have the honor to return the application of Mr.Louis Henry Raw, --- Gentleman, of 615 Salisbury House, London Wall, London, E.C. forwarded with your docket No.G.3056/G.M. 75-09-9 of 2nd December 1909.

The process as specified in the application is one which is, with --- various modifications frequently resorted to for extracting fibre in small quantities from various plants.

To place so simple a manipulation under the restrictions of a patent would mean to impose a serious disability on the grower in the preparation of cordage even for his household use, and for this reason I should -- pt recommend the granting of the leave applied for.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

Economic Botanist,
Supt., Govt.Gardens.
